

RMIT Text Colour Contrast

Reference Guide

This is a quick reference guide to help identify the RMIT colour combinations that meet the WCAG levels of contrast ratio.

What are the WCAG levels?

Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) developed by the World Wide Web Consortium (W3C), have detailed a standard for appropriate contrast ratio to be used on digital screens to ensure readability for all users. The higher the contrast ratio, the easier it is to distinguish the text from the background.

Level A - Color is not used as the only visual means of conveying information, indicating an action, prompting a response, or distinguishing a visual element.

Level AA – For the minimum requirement of this level the visual presentation of text and images of text has a contrast ratio of at least 4.5:1

Level AAA – For a more enhanced requirement the visual presentation of text and images of text has a contrast ratio of at least 7:1

-  Does not meet WCAG colour contrast level
-  Meets some levels for WCAG colour contrast, but does not meet all AAA levels
-  Meets all WCAG colour contrast AAA levels
